The only detail of the fatal crash available as The Freeman went to press was that Lt. Bagshaw was killed while test piloting a plane.

The navy airman, 29, entered service in 1941 and served as a pilot during World War 2. He celebrated his 29th birthday Thursday.

Lt. Bagshaw, who attended Syracuse University, was the son of Captain and Mrs. James R. Bagshaw, Jr., of Chester, Pa.

Man Dragged by Auto, Driver Fails to Stop

Thomas Colao, 17, of 157 Tammany street, told police Friday night that he was dragged half a block by an automobile that accidentally hooked on to his clothing.

Colao suffered an injury to his left ankle, police said, as the result of the accident.

Colao told police he was getting out of his own car on Tammany street about 8 p. m. Friday when a passing vehicle snared his trousers leg and dragged him along the roadway for a distance. Although Colao screamed, the driver of the other vehicle did not stop, he told police. The automobile was a dark colored late model passenger vehicle, but no other description was obtained.

Calls Review 'Lousy' After Writer Reports Her Concert 'Flat'

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—President Truman's knuckle-cracking letter to a music critic who panned his daughter's singing provoked chuckles and some sharp Republican comment today.

In the free-swinging style he sometimes used in private conversations with friends, the President let go at Paul Hume, critic for the Washington Post. Hume had said in his review last Tuesday night at a well-attended concert was "flat a good deal of the time."

Few outside of the President and Hume professed publicly knowing just what Mr. Truman said. But the Washington Daily News quoted the President in an irate-father vein like this:

"I have just read your lousy review buried in the back pages. You sound like a frustrated old man who never made a success, an eight-act man on a four-act job and all four ulcers working."

"I never met you but if I do you'll need a new nose and plenty of bedpans and perhaps a supporter below."

Ask Question Whether MacArthur Was Aware of Enemy Hordes

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall faced questioning by senators today on the reported breakdown of American Military Intelligence in the Korean war.

Senator Cordon (R-Ore.) told a reporter in advance of Marshall's appearance at a closed meeting of the Senate Appropriations Committee (10 a. m.) that he wants the general of the armies to explain how Chinese Communists surprised United Nations troops and turned an offensive into a rout.

"I want to know whether there was a failure on the part of our intelligence service to learn that the Chinese Communists were massing overwhelming numbers of troops," Cordon said.

"I want to know if Gen. Douglas MacArthur knew what his men were facing or if the general staff here knew what they were going up against."

Central Hudson Revision of Gas Service Approved

New York, Dec. 9 (Special)—The Public Service Commission handed down a decision Friday approving a petition by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, which serves Kingston and other communities with natural gas, permitting a revision of services.

Under the new arrangements the company will liberalize its provision relative to the construction of service laterals on private property. At present the company does not bring its lines into a customer's property at its own expense. In order, however, to assist in selling gas space heating service in houses now being built, it agrees to furnish the first 50 feet on private property at company expense.

Also under the new regulations, effective today, there will be no further submetering in commercial and industrial classifications.

The petition was approved by the P.S.C. on recommendation of its director of Research and Valuation, M. F. Orton.

Adolph Tripps, Jr. of Ferndale, a director of the Liberty National Farm Loan Association of Liberty, and Levern Staley of Amsterdam, a director of the Capitol National Farm Loan Association of Menands, were elected member and alternate member, respectively, on an 11-man advisory committee by the directors of the nine national farm loan associations in the Hudson valley and Long Island at a meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Friday. They will succeed Morton C. Putnam of Johnstown, and Adolph Trips, Jr., of Ferndale, whose terms expire January 1, 1951.

These nine local farmer-owned cooperatives make long-term Federal Land Bank mortgage loans to their farmer-members, and with similar associations in New England, New York, and the balance of New York own all the capital stock of the Federal Land Bank of Springfield with assets over 60 million dollars.

Friday's meeting was the last of a series of seven which have been held by the Federal Land Bank of Springfield for the purpose of reviewing activities of the past year, discussing agricultural conditions, and electing new association advisory committee members for the following year.

U. S., Britain Will Push War Plans Until Reds Let Up

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee held open to Russia and Communist China today an offer to negotiate—but with "no appeasement"—the settlement of the Korean conflict and other crucial world issues.

The offer was coupled with a grimly determined agreement that until the Communists power "modify their conduct" in the interests of peace the U. S. and Britain must push with maximum speed their military preparation for the defense of the free world.

Essentially, the President and prime minister in their joint summary yesterday of their historic talks put the blame squarely on Russia and Red China for the dangerous state of world affairs. And they called on those nations to change their ways so "the defense preparation" would become unnecessary.

This proposal to end the East-West arms race, qualified as it was with rejection of any "appeasement" or any Korean settlement which would have the effect of "rewarding aggression" apparently has little prospect of Communist acceptance.

Well-informed diplomats said the proposal was designed to make clear to the world that the British and American interest in defense is paralleled by constant readiness to seek a peaceful way out of the world's troubles.

Pleased With Meeting

The communique was issued at the White House shortly after conclusion of the talks which began last Monday. The British prime minister left immediately for New York, en route to Ottawa and London. Aides described him as being well pleased with the meeting.

He had come to Washington to two principal objectives—(a) to get reassurance that Europe remains the prime defense area in American strategy despite the explosive situation in the Far East, and (b) to urge consultation before any U. S. decision to use the atom bomb.

The communique emphasized the need for a military buildup in western Europe and for a peaceful settlement in the Far East, if that is possible without appeasement. It deliberately avoided referring to Chinese "aggression" in Korea and mentioned only "intervention."

It also reported that Mr. Truman agreed to keep Mr. Attlee informed of any circumstances which might appear to make the use of the atomic bomb necessary. That was generally assessed as an implied promise of the opportunity for consultation.

Both British and American officials said no secret agreements had been made during the talks. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, one of the chief participants in the talks, arranged to go before a closed joint meeting of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committee today (10:30 a. m.) to report on what was said and what was agreed to.

Chinese Keep Up Attack on Soldiers, Marines on Icy Roads

Tokyo, Dec. 9 (AP)—Allied warplanes and artillery pounded hard today in renewed efforts to blast out Chinese Red forces blocking the icy road of escape for 20,000 trapped American troops.

Chances of the marines and doughboys to escape were reported improved. Clear weather brought back their air support and a rescue column of foot soldiers coming inland were reported near the trapped force.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, U. S. 10th Corps commander, said at 1:30 p. m. Saturday (11:30 p. m. E.S.T., Friday) that the 20,000 fighting southward from Koto were near a linkup with the north-bound rescue column from the Third Infantry Division.

The objective is to get the 20,000 to Hungnam, the port for Hamhung—and possible evacuation by sea.

Gap Between Forces

A spokesman said a few of the soldiers and marines may have joined but there still was a gap between the main forces. The location was not given.

Ships of the United Nations fleet stood ready to meet any eventuality off Hungnam, 45 winding miles from the trapped Americans' kickoff point at Koto town in the deep mountains south of Changjin reservoir.

The navy appeared to be preparing for a mass evacuation of United Nations troops from the northeast sector, now infested with 100,000 or more Red Chinese.

New threats mounted for the allied columns—both the surrounded Americans and British marines and their rescuers.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton, with the U. S. Third Division, reported at 4 p. m. (2 a. m. EST) that four or more Chinese divisions—32,000 to 40,000 men—were striking swiftly to cut the escape route far behind the two American columns.

Chinese Swarm All Over

Swinton said the Chinese were clambering over snowy hills flanking the narrow river gorge road twisting south from Koto.

AP Correspondent Jack Macbeth, the only newsmen with the surrounded allied force at Koto, said marines patrol by 10 a. m. Saturday (8 p. m. EST, Friday)

West Point Soldier Killed at Milton As Auto Overturns

A West Point soldier was killed and two others were injured at Milton early today when their automobile overturned after a tire blew out.

Corporal James T. Winton, 19, whose home is at Ada, Okla., was killed instantly, state police said. The driver of the automobile, Richard T. Olson, 21, of Waupun, Wisc., was admitted to Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie suffering from a laceration of the scalp and a back injury, state police said.

The third occupant of the vehicle, Claude W. Fowler, 21, of Wallkill, Okla., was treated for minor injuries and has been released from the hospital.

Sgt. William B. Martin of the state police at Highland said the three men were members of the regular army and were returning to West Point after a visit to Poughkeepsie. They were traveling south on Route 9W at 3:15 a. m. today when the left rear tire blew and Olson lost control of the car, which turned over, troopers said.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly has issued a verdict of accidental death. The death was caused by a compound fracture of the skull, Kelly said.

Winton's body was turned over to the Tuttle Funeral Home at Marlborough. His death is the first motor vehicle death reported in Ulster county this month and the 29th since January 1.

Span Costing 50 Million Will Be Started as Soon as Department of Army Approves

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—The New York State Thruway Authority revealed yesterday that it had selected the Tappan Zee area of the Hudson as the location for its controversial bridge.

M. J. Madigan, consulting engineer for the authority, told a news conference that the bridge would have its Westchester county terminus near Route 119, a mile south of Tarrytown, and its Rockland county terminus at the dividing line between South Nyack and Grandview.

Madigan said the bridge, to be built over the widest part of the Hudson, would cost about $50,000,000 and require two years for construction. He said work would start after the department of the army gives its approval.

The bridge will utilize techniques never before employed over so wide a body of water, Madigan said. At the Tappan Zee, the Hudson is 15,000 feet wide.

Will Be Key Link
The span will be a key link in the proposed 535-mile thruway connecting New York with Buffalo, Pennsylvania, and Canada. The super-highway's cost is estimated at $450,000,000.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

Tim Tim sat very close to his father's side, upon his little stool. Bob loved the child, and dreaded that he might be taken from him.

"Spirit," said Scrooge, with an interest he had never felt before, "tell me if Tim Tim will live!"

"I see a vacant seat," replied the Spirit of Christmas Past, "in the poor chimney corner, and a crutch without an owner, carefully preserved. If these shadows remain unaltered by the future, the child will die."

"I see a vacant seat," replied the Spirit of Christmas Past, "in the poor chimney corner, and a crutch without an owner, carefully preserved. If these shadows remain unaltered by the future, the child will die."

Redeemer Church Plans Christmas Pageant Sunday

The annual Christmas pageant at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers streets, will be presented Sunday at 7:45 p. m. The presentation this year, called "The Story of the Birth of Jesus," is a dramatization of the events of the Nativity from the annunciation to the adoration of the Magi with a postlude depicting modern worship of the Babe of Bethlehem.

Staged with simplicity and feeling, the pageant emphasizes the spiritual content of the events in the language of the King James version of the New Testament.

The traditional Christmas presentation at Redeemer is produced by Mrs. Ernest J. Ryan, Jr., and includes drills and vocal selections by the choir of seraphim which she directs. Chorus and special musical background will be provided by a choral group under the leadership of Leonard Stine. The organ music for the entire presentation will be directed by Frederick Richens with Elvira W. Herb in charge of musical continuity. Caroline H. Legg will sing an interlude solo. Prior to the beginning of the service, Maids B. Richens will play a program of Christmas carols on the tower chimes.

The cast of characters includes the following: Mary, Mavis Richens; Joseph, Robert Mould; Shepherds, Robert Campbell, Thomas Rowland, Jr., Lynwood Richens; Shepherd Boy, Richard Fox; Magi, John Koch, Louis Egbertson and Robert Crosby. In the modern scene the characters will be Carolyn Dubois, Carol Gaise, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Malmes and Tina Malmes.

Special Yule Activities Planned by St. James

The Yule Candle Festival will be presented by request for the third year at St. James Methodist Church. The tall white candle symbolic of Christ's life is the central theme of the pageant. The nativity story is presented simply by means of carols and dramatization in an old English setting. There will be several changes in the presentation this year. At the close of the service each person receives a small white candle which is lighted from the Yule Candle and carried away from the church to the home. This year the service will be given at 8:45 p. m. vesper service on Dec. 17.

Approval Given Early Plan on Solicitations

A tentative system of exercising a degree of control over miscellaneous solicitations was approved at a meeting of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce solicitation control committee Thursday night. Harry Rigby, Jr., chairman of the committee stated that the plan would be presented at a meeting of the chamber board of directors next Tuesday night after which the committee will meet again to work out the details.

The community chest question was brought up for discussion. Before going into this question further at this time the committee would like to determine how the public and the agencies involved feel about the possibility of advisability of considering the community chest idea. Expression of opinions would be welcome.

The committee has gathered a large variety of solicitation control material from other cities. Rigby, stated that most chambers of commerce seem to have some kind of a program to control solicitations, although they differ widely. The question of a community chest and the control of miscellaneous solicitations are two distinct problems and will be considered separately by the committee.

Ejected by Union

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—De-nounced as "a representative of the Communist Party," a former official of the CIO Transport Workers Union, was ejected from the union's convention yesterday. The denunciation came from TWU President Michael J. Quill. The former official, Maurice Forge, was shot out of the meeting hall by about 10 delegates. Forge, former international vice president, was ousted from membership in the union by its executive board last March. The board charged Forge with disruptive practices and trying to get members to join another union. Forge remained outside the hall for a while and gave out pamphlets entitled, "Appeal of Maurice Forge." He has an appeal on his ouster pending before a union board. In his leaflet, Forge said he could "prove that I am not guilty of any of the accusations made by the international president." Quill told the convention, after Forge's ejection: "The Communist bloc in the Transport Workers Union is almost wiped out. We warn them now that if they spread any more of their filth around this convention and this building, I will ask the members to go to work on them."

Special Yule Activities Planned by St. James The Yule Candle Festival will be presented by request for the third year at St. James Methodist Church. The tall white candle symbolic of Christ's life is the central theme of the pageant. The nativity story is presented simply by means of carols and dramatization. There will be several changes in the presentation this year. At the close of the service each person receives a small white candle which is lighted from the Yule Candle and carried away from the church to the home. This year the service will be given as a 5 p. m. vespers service on Dec. 17. There will be a Christmas tree party for all members of the church school and friends on Dec. 22. A program for and by the children will be given and refreshments will be served. The annual Christmas Eve communion service will be held Sunday, Dec. 24, at 11 p. m. The service will be held by candlelight with special Christmas music.

Try for Strong G.O.P. Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—A seven-member committee took over the job today of trying to build a strong Republican Party in the South. Headed by John E. Jackson, of New Orleans, the group has the authority of the Republican National Committee's executive committee to work for a "forceful and effective" opposition party where Democrats for years have been winning elections by default. A resolution creating the committee was adopted last night. It represented the principal action of a one-day meeting called to take stock of what brought about GOP victories in the Nov. 7 elections and why the gains were not greater.

Headboard Beds Fit Into One-Room Home

You can have headboard beds in a one-room apartment by dividing your room, according to Paul MacAlister, nationally known authority on interior decorating.

It requires careful planning in a small space, but MacAlister has worked out an ingenious arrangement which makes two well balanced rooms out of one. He suggests inserting a low storage wall at right angles to the room wall to form a partition between the sleeping and living areas of the room.

To further separate the two sections of the room a row of plants could be placed on top of the storage wall, or a simple latticed framework can be built with vines trained over it. Such room dividers frequently have been made into decorative assets which give no hint of their utilitarian purpose, but would seem to be designed for effect alone.

The storage wall, then, serves as a background for the beds and headboard, and will provide an effective contrast to the headboard upholstery. The beds, a slipper chair and the end wall can be done in color contrast to the living area to set it off as a "second room."

Easier to Clean

Waxed woodwork cuts down cleaning. Rub spots that are handled often with a thin coat of liquid wax.

Streaks on Screens Are Easily Removed

Spots or streaks of hardened paint may be removed from wire screens by carefully applying paint remover with a brush, and leaving it on just long enough to soften the paint. Then wipe off the softened paint with a rag soaked in turpentine augmented by the use of a brush, if necessary, to free the mesh of paint. Finally, be sure to wash all the places to which the paint remover has been applied with turpentine to remove any traces of the paint remover. When dry, apply a coating of half spar varnish and half turpentine to the cleaned spots to prevent corrosion. Of course it is assumed that the entire screen has been protected by a similar coating, or by special screen paint.

Landscaping Varies Standardized House

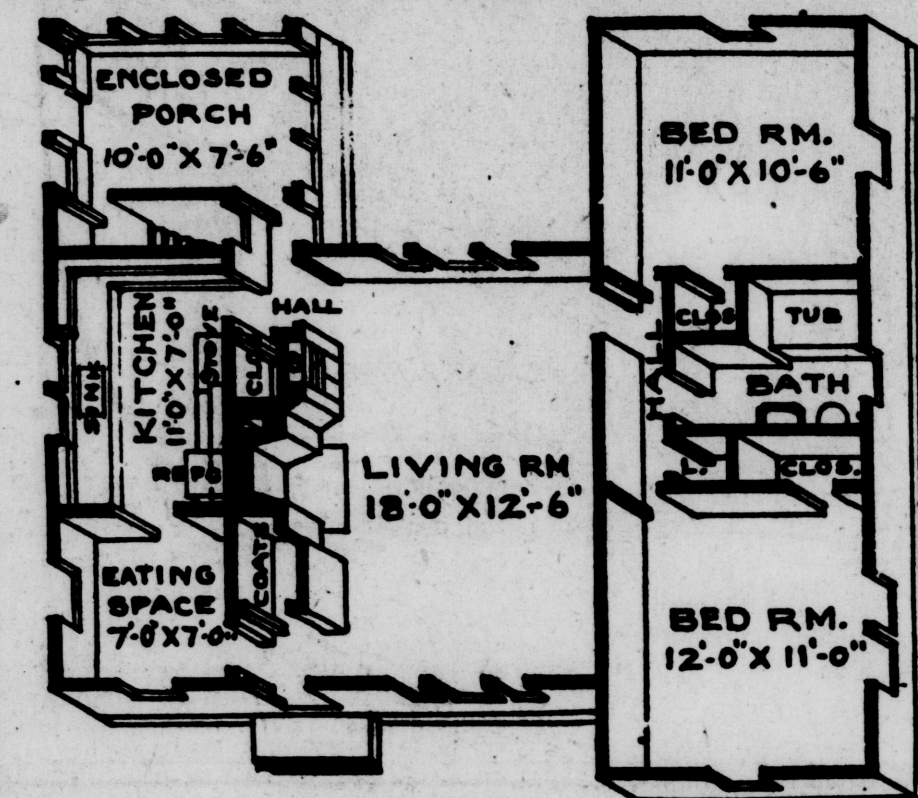

If you have short or long windows in your room badly placed and badly proportioned, you might try this suggestion.

Cover the short window with a sheer curtain only and use the color of the wall. Then treat the long window wall and not just the window. Cover the glass expanse with the same color sheer curtains, and then hang on the wall framing this expanse a pair of full, dramatically colored and patterned draperies. If the ceilings are low, hang both curtain and drapery from the top of the wall.

THE TILTON

HOME OF THE WEEK: "The Tilton." Some money can be saved in the construction of this house by cutting down the size of the basement.

Rooms on One Floor in Ground-Hugging House

Cottage on Cape Cod Lines Can Become Ranch House

A low, ground-hugging house with all its rooms on one floor, so designed that the owner can do such jobs as painting and minor repairs himself without professional assistance, is introduced today by the Home of the Week Plan Service.

Called "The Tilton" the cottage stems from the Cape Cod pattern, its large, black-capped chimney, giving an air of solidity to the whole. If the ranch-house style is preferred, a dwelling of that type may be built from the same plan by simply adding a breezeway and garage at the left.

Measures 36x33 Feet

Built as pictured, the house measures 36x33 feet and has a cubic content of 16,000 feet. This is based on construction with full basement. The cubage can be reduced to 14,500 feet by putting a cellar only under the living room, kitchen and dinette and excavating to a depth of two or three feet to provide air space under the bedrooms. Whether the saving in dollars is sufficient to compensate for the sacrifice of cellar space is a question the owner would have to decide for himself.

In most communities The Tilton could be built on a lot with a 50-foot frontage. In the example pictured, the outside walls are finished with painted clapboards, but shingles or masonry could be used if preferred. The roof is covered with green asphalt shingles and has copper flashing. Insulation should be used over room ceilings and in side walls.

The front door opens on a jog of the living room which serves as an entry. A coat closet is convenient to the front door, tucked in beside the fireplace. At the left of the closet is an arch opening on the tiny dinette—a 7x7-foot room in which built-in table and benches might well be used.

Well-Equipped Kitchen The kitchen, connected with the dinette by a double swinging door, is an 11x7-foot room well supplied with wall cabinets and working counters. One long counter, with a sink in the middle of it under a double window, lines one wall of the room and extends around the corner to fill another wall with wall cabinets and a narrower counter below. Another work counter with wall cabinets above is placed against the inside wall of the room, between the range and refrigerator.

Like the living room, the kitchen also has a jog, which connects with a short hall ending in a French door that opens on the enclosed porch at the rear of the house. The cellar stairway descends from this porch. A storage closet opens from the kitchen jog, for brooms and storage of canned goods, etc.

Living Room Is Feature The 18x12 1/2-foot living room is the showroom of the entire house, especially if it is finished, as the architect recommends, with knotty pine sheathing. Groups of three windows in front and rear walls of the room flood it with light and provide good ventilation. The wall space between living room and bedrooms is left unbroken except for a door near one end, allowing easy arrangement of large furniture pieces. The opposite wall is centered by the fireplace, with a built-in bookcase at its right. A door next to the bookcase opens off the kitchen and rear hall area.

The bedroom wing of the house has a hall from which the bath and a linen closet opens. Each bedroom—measuring 12x11 feet, the other 11x10 1/2 feet—has windows on two sides, and a good sized clothes closet.

Forced hot air heating is recommended for a house of this type. The architect also suggests that the fireplace be equipped with heat vents opening in the kitchen and dinette, so that a fireplace blaze may warm the main portion of the house during cool fall and spring days.

Complete plans and specifications for "The Tilton" and other houses in this series are available at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a 3-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

Five Factors in Value of Home

There are five major factors that create or destroy value in residential property, according to Alfred A. Ring, associate professor of real estate at the University of Florida.

Dr. Ring lists these factors in an article, "What Makes Value," written for The Review, official publication of the Society of Residential Appraisers.

They are: Homogeneous, civic-minded and law-abiding neighbors; pleasing and well-blending architectural designs of homes in the surrounding community; convenient location to shopping areas, churches and schools; absence of noise, traffic, smoke and dust; and desirable and effective zoning, deed and building restrictions.

The term value, as used by real estate men, is best defined, Dr. Ring says, as "the highest price which a willing seller, not forced to sell, will accept from a willing buyer, not forced to buy, assuming that both parties act intelligently and are fully informed, and that sufficient time is had to consider the transaction with due care."

Appraisers too have their problems, it seems. Where appraisers run into trouble, Dr. Ring writes, is not in determining the physical value of a home, for stone, wood and mortar can be evaluated generally with little difficulty.

It is in studying economic information, in measuring the nature of depreciation and in forecasting future events that appraisers run into snags.

Treatment Suggested For Window Problem

While the use of standardized designs enables a builder to erect houses cheaper than those that are individually styled, and this is good for the buyer's pocketbook, it is not so good for his aesthetic sense or for the appearance of the neighborhood as a whole.

Rows of dwellings as much alike as peas in the same pod give a community the deadly monotony of an old-fashioned mill village but there are ways that the owners themselves can give touches of individuality to their homes.

One way to vary the appearance of a standard house is to give it a landscaping scheme entirely different from its neighbors. Another method is to give it a distinctive color scheme. And wonders can be accomplished with superficial features, such as shutters, awnings, fences and lamp posts.

Special Moulding Hides Unsightly Wall Cracks

Unsightly wall cracks around bath tubs and showers, often caused by settlement or shrinkage, of wall finish, can be concealed by a moulding manufactured expressly for this purpose.

The moulding is obtainable in aluminum alloy which has tarnish-proof qualities: all necessary angles are provided. A bonding compound to hold the moulding in place is supplied.

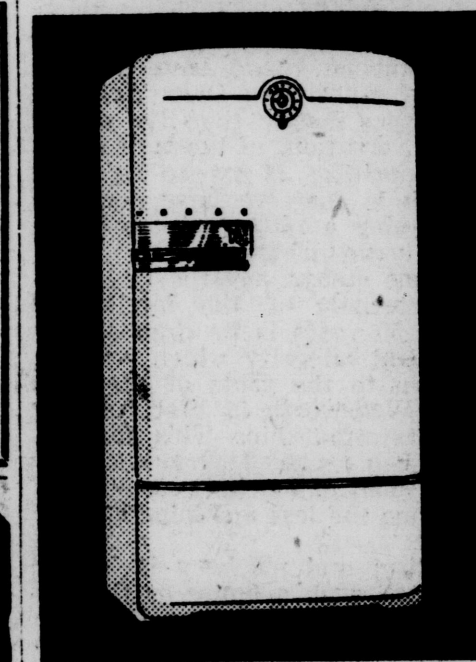

Insulated Garages

Many motorists have learned that their automobile starts much easier on cold winter mornings if their garage interiors are lined with structural insulating board. The material, besides retarding the escape of heat from the inside, is highly resistant to wind penetration.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 9, 1950

HITLER AS A DRIVER.

"I have commanded an army for eleven years, and during all that time I never heard anybody report that everything was completely ready. On the contrary, a report usually arrived in which the Navy urgently requested delay for such and such a length of time because this and that should still be done. Then when the Navy was ready, the Army said, 'It would be a great pity if we should do that now, because the Army is just about to introduce this or that thing and would like to wait for it.' When the Army was ready, then the Air Force would come forward with, 'It is quite impossible to do that. Until the new model is introduced, it is impossible to expose ourselves to such a danger.' Then the Navy would begin a new series of postponements."

Every student of military history will recognize the truth of this statement, but may be surprised that this state of affairs prevailed in Germany under Hitler. The above quotation comes from his speech to his generals in December, 1944, during the Battle of the Bulge. It illustrates his driving quality, which often got things done when the professional army leaders wanted to go slow. Churchill had the same quality. His memoirs show how he forced General Sir Archibald Wavell to take action in Syria when Wavell wanted to spare his men. Thereby the British won a great victory which prevented Germany from putting pressure on Turkey.

War is a task for experts, but as sometimes happens in other fields the expert occasionally gets bogged down in his own routine. Then is the time for the outsider with a fresh estimate to come in and save the day.

PROPHET OF BOOM

A tremendous boom in the next five years is predicted by Leon H. Keyserling, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. He thinks the output of goods and services will rise to half a trillion dollars annually by 1955. This would be an increase of more than seventy-five per cent over the estimated rate of production in 1950.

Keyserling may be more or less pulling a figure out of a hat, but it is not necessarily a fantastic figure. From 1940 to 1945 the physical volume of industrial production rose about sixty-two per cent, and in that same interval the dollar value of goods and services, as expressed in national income, rose 126 per cent. That was the period of World War II production. Apparently Keyserling anticipates a comparable armament program stimulus in the coming five years.

Would such a boom bring a higher standard of living? On the contrary it might be accompanied by sacrifices in the living standard if the increase went into military goods and operations. Armament production is profitable to individual industries and their workers, but costly to the national economy as a whole, because of the materials and manpower removed from useful production. But if we could eliminate war and devote the same energy to constructive enterprise, a national output of half a trillion in the goods of peace would bring unheard-of luxury to Americans, with some to spare for our neighbors.

HANDICAPPED AT WORK

Emphasis on abilities rather than disabilities was the keynote of the recent meeting of the National Rehabilitation Association in New York City.

The manpower shortage resulting from the military situation has caused employers to examine every avenue of help. One of the most productive has proved to be the rehabilitation programs being carried all over the country by federal-state projects, workers' compensation groups, and labor organizations. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in her address at the meeting, emphasized the importance of the rehabilitation programs.

Without an important element in the success of a growing number of disabled persons, the rehabilitation programs would be of little use.

'These Days'

THE PAUSE OF CONFESSION

We have lost a military war; we are losing a diplomatic war. Let us pause to confess. For unless we cleanse our minds of the barnacles of untruth, we shall suffer even greater disasters.

The truth can no longer be hidden. It is exposed by the retreat in Korea and by that strange palaver in the United Nations. A world should have risen to our defense and we should be standing shoulder to shoulder with all free men. It has not happened.

Years have been wasted. Wealth has been wasted. Lives have been wasted. It is false to blame General Douglas MacArthur. He was not present at either Teheran or Yalta. He did not set the stage for our defeat. He did not give Soviet Russia $11,000,000,000. He did not open the door to agents and spies who stole our atom bomb and other devices of defense. He did not coddle Chinese Communists.

He must not be made the scapegoat for the errors he did not commit. If his judgment concerning the manpower of Soviet China was faulty, he has already answered that he took no steps without the approval of our government and the United Nations.

Blaming this man or that will not avail us now. For the blood of our sons demands an answer to a question asked as far back as 1942 by Alfred Noyes, the British poet, in his book "The Edge of the Abyss":

"How can we build a stable world again, or find any security for our children, or believe in any of the higher values that make life worth living, when the very foundations of all real belief have been shattered or sneered out of existence, in the intellectual and spiritual collapse of western civilization?"

It is a question that goes deeper than party politics of whether someone would have made a more able secretary of state than Dean Acheson. It is a question that goes deeper than the events of yesterday or the conversations of heads of states worried about their majorities. It goes to the heart of our problem, which is that we have confused ourselves. We are paying a bitter price for permitting ourselves the luxury of the lie.

Noyes, in these same essays, says: "The chief characteristic of the intellectual world during the last 50 years is its gradual loss of the old simplicity and integrity which went so deep—went right down to the roots of life with men like Milton and Wordsworth in literature, or Abraham Lincoln in statesmanship. This deep integrity of spirit has been replaced everywhere by a shallow cynicism, a spirit of mockery, sometimes clever mockery, but none the less a shining surface with nothing behind it."

This shallow cynicism and mockery is in our daily lives. May I recall such a figure as Charles Lindbergh? Do you remember how he was driven from public life and ridiculed? Was Lindbergh mad when he feared the opening of the world to Russia?

Do you recall how when certain American newspapers dared to question the wisdom of policies that have produced our defeat, they were branded as Fascists and you are ready to say that their warnings did not warrant consideration?

I watch men hopping on the tailboard of anti-Communism these days. Those hoppers dare not risk the rising anger of a people betrayed. Like pickpockets, they melt into the crowd and shout, even louder than all others: "Down with Stalin!" Their shouts are a mockery. For decades now they have devoted themselves to the destruction of their own people, and now when the consequences of their infamy are upon us all, they move over. Nothing will cleanse them but open confession.

We shall not go under. We are still a good and a strong people. But the thousands of American bodies that lie under Korean snows must be atoned. They must never be forgotten. On their tombstones should be the words: "A victim of cynicism."

The politicians have had their day. Now the American people must speak out loud and clear. And they should take count.

Only if a joint committee of the Congress—the best men in Congress—study truthfully and non-politically the causes of our defeat, re-examine every step that led to it since 1933—only so can we prepare a votive board where he who has it in his heart to confess, can do so under oath and in public. That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

CARE OF TEETH

Some years ago a book was published showing how to make up various preparations for care of the body and the promotion of health. Among the preparations was one for cleaning the teeth in which enough tooth powder could be made up for a few cents to last the individual six months.

What some of us forget is that tooth powder or other preparations put up by our large drug manufacturers, appeal to the eye, to the sense of smell, to the taste, and so invite use whereas others, while just as effective in doing their work, do not invite use and are used regularly. It is regularity in brushing the teeth that is most important.

In a news release from the American Dental Association, Dr. Maynard K. Hine, Indianapolis, Dean of the Indiana University School of Dentistry, states that healthy gums (which prevent pyorrhea) can best be maintained by regular, thorough and careful brushing of teeth. In advocating three to five minutes of brushing at a time, Dr. Hine describes the firm, healthy gum as a pale coral pink with an orange peel texture. Further, effective dental treatment for gum disorders can only be short-lived unless the patient carries out good tooth brushing procedures at home carefully and persistently. Dr. Hine recommends a toothbrush with an inch-long head, containing medium one-half inch bristles that are bound in tufts about one-eighth of an inch apart and mounted in two rows of six tufts each.

In brushing the teeth, the ends of the bristles should not be allowed to irritate the gums; the sides of the bristles should be pressed against the gums with as much pressure as the individual can withstand. Brushing should be done in circles as wide as possible.

As to dentifrices, Dr. Hine quoted a formula, "Equal parts of water and elbow grease." Stains, green or brown, are thought by some to show that the teeth are sound, and by others that they are unsound. Dr. S. W. Lutz of Rochester, N. Y., in another article, states that as Eastman fellow in dentistry at the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry, he found that there is no difference in the amount of decay in persons who have brown stains and those without them. Similarly with green stains.

What You Might Call Facing a Crisis

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The White House still get the job done," the admiral predicted.

Lagging Airplane Production
Sherman's realistic report had an electrifying effect on the committee and its salty chairman, Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia. Vinson announced that he wouldn't stand for any more "business as usual" in the war production program.

The Georgian spoke his piece when William J. McNeil, assistant secretary of defense, advised the committee behind closed doors that aircraft production wasn't moving fast because of delays in getting airplane engines. "Plants producing engines are on an eight-hour work day and at this rate it will be 18 months before warplane production will be at a peak," McNeil reported.

"Well, those plants ought to be working on a 24-hour basis," shot back Vinson. "We've got to get the job done now—not 18 months from now. We won't get it done with men working only eight hours a day. Money is not the object now. Our liberty and the freedom of the world is at stake."

Coalition Government?
Whenever friends urge President Truman to form a coalition government, he throws up his hands and wails: "But where can I get good men to come into government?"

This column, which has urged bringing topflight Republicans into the administration, herewith presents four experienced and able Republicans:

Paul Hoffman—Ex-ECA administrator who put across the Marshall Plan in Europe. He would be a natural for a cabinet post or for a high position in the State Department. Hoffman is now touring Europe for the Ford Foundation.

Lewis Strauss—Ex-secretary to Herbert Hoover in World War I, World War II admiral, and recently retired from the Atomic Energy Commission. President Truman sided with Strauss in the debate over making the hydrogen bomb.

Charles Taft—Cincinnati lawyer and brother of Sen. Robert Taft. Charles Taft served in World War I and was director of the Federal Security Agency and State Department during World War II.

General "Wild Bill" Donovan—War-time director of the Office of Strategic Services. He organized U. S. spying and behind-the-lines activities, and was assistant attorney general in the Coolidge administration. Some of Truman's closest advisers, including Democratic chairman Bill Boyle, tried to persuade the President to make Donovan secretary of defense in place of General Marshall, but the inside fact is that Truman doesn't like him.

All the above are Republicans; all are both able and patriotic.

Barren-Banned Senators
Colorado's GOP Sen. Eugene Millikin, whose head is as smooth as a Colorado boulder, gave his opinion the other day of senators who try to conceal their baldness. Millikin took the floor in self-defense at a closed-door Republican caucus, after Maine's Sen. Owen Brewster made a crack about the bald-headed old-timers. Mischievously Millikin accused Brewster of trying to cover his bald head with "slicked overs," or strands of strategically combed hair.

"But the greatest deceptionist is Bob Taft," grinned Millikin with a glance at Senator Taft's thinly camouflaged head.

Headlines and Headaches
Rumors that Bill Boyle is resigning as Democratic national chairman are about as accurate as General MacArthur's bring-the-boys-home-by-Christmas promises. Boyle can only resign to the full Democratic committee at a meeting which he must call himself.

Backstage fact is that some of the Ed Pauley oil boys have been gunning for Boyle ever since he persuaded the President to veto the Kerr natural gas bill; also since he encouraged HST to be tough on Tideland Oil.

It's now becoming clearer why Senator Downey, Democrat, ducked out of the Senate early to make room for Senator-elect Nixon, Republican, a friend of the oil lobby. Downey will not only represent the city of Long Beach, Calif., which owns a stack of Tideland Oil leases along the edge of the Pacific, but will also represent San Diego and Oakland, Long Beach, however, will pay most of the freight—a total of $1,500 monthly expenses or $36,000 a year. . . . Long Beach harbor commissioners at first told the press to withhold any mention of their hiring the ex-senator.

HITLER AS A DRIVER

"I have commanded an army for eleven years, and during all that time I never heard anybody report that everything was completely ready. On the contrary, a report usually arrived in which the Navy urgently requested delay for such and such a length of time because this and that should still be done. Then when the Navy was ready, the Army said, 'It would be a great pity if we should do that now, because the Army is just about to introduce this or that thing and would like to wait for it.' When the Army was ready, then the Air Force would come forward with, 'It is quite impossible to do that. Until the new model is introduced, it is impossible to expose ourselves to such a danger.' Then the Navy would begin a new series of postponements."

Every student of military history will recognize the truth of this statement, but may be surprised that this state of affairs prevailed in Germany under Hitler. The above quotation comes from his speech to his generals in December, 1944, during the Battle of the Bulge. It illustrates his driving quality, which often got things done when the professional army leaders wanted to go slow. Churchill had the same quality. His memoirs show how he forced General Sir Archibald Wavell to take action in Syria when Wavell wanted to spare his men. Thereby the British won a great victory which prevented Germany from putting pressure on Turkey.

War is a task for experts, but as sometimes happens in other fields the expert occasionally gets bogged down in his own routine. Then is the time for the outsider with a fresh estimate to come in and save the day.

PROPHET OF BOOM

A tremendous boom in the next five years is predicted by Leon H. Keyserling, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. He thinks the output of goods and services will rise to half a trillion dollars annually by 1955. This would be an increase of more than seventy-five per cent over the estimated rate of production in 1950.

Keyserling may be more or less pulling a figure out of a hat, but it is not necessarily a fantastic figure. From 1940 to 1945 the physical volume of industrial production rose about sixty-two per cent, and in that same interval the dollar value of goods and services, as expressed in national income, rose 126 per cent. That was the period of World War II production. Apparently Keyserling anticipates a comparable armament program stimulus in the coming five years.

Would such a boom bring a higher standard of living? On the contrary it might be accompanied by sacrifices in the living standard if the increase went into military goods and operations. Armament production is profitable to individual industries and their workers, but costly to the national economy as a whole, because of the materials and manpower removed from useful production. But if we could eliminate war and devote the same energy to constructive enterprise, a national output of half a trillion in the goods of peace would bring unheard-of luxury to Americans, with some to spare for our neighbors.

HANDICAPPED AT WORK

Emphasis on abilities rather than disabilities was the keynote of the recent meeting of the National Rehabilitation Association in New York City.

The manpower shortage resulting from the military situation has caused employers to examine every avenue of help. One of the most productive has proved to be the rehabilitation programs being carried all over the country by federal-state projects, workmen's compensation groups, and labor organizations. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, one of the speakers at the meeting, emphasized the fact that before job training could be effective the candidate's fear and insecurity must be removed.

Doubtless an important element in the success of a growing number of disabled persons placed in jobs is the fact that indus-

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE PAUSE OF CONFESSION

We have lost a military war; we are losing a diplomatic war. Let us pause to confess. For unless we cleanse our minds of the barnacles of untruth, we shall suffer even greater disasters.

The truth can no longer be hidden. It is exposed by the retreat in Korea and by that strange palaver in the United Nations. A world should have risen to our defense and we should be standing shoulder to shoulder with all free men. It has not happened.

Years have been wasted. Wealth has been wasted. Lives have been wasted.

It is false to blame General Douglas MacArthur. He was not present at either Tehran or Yalta. He did not set the stage for our defeat. He did not give Soviet Russia $11,000,000,000. He did not open the door to agents and spies who stole our atom bomb and other devices of defense. He did not coddle Chinese Communists.

He must not be made the scapegoat for the errors he did not commit. If his judgment concerning the manpower of Soviet China was faulty, he has already answered that he took no steps without the approval of our government and the United Nations.

Blaming this man or that will not avail us now. For the blood of our sons demands an answer to a question asked as far back as 1942 by Alfred Noyes, the British poet, in his book "The Edge of the Abyss":

"How can we build a stable world again, or find any security for our children, or believe in any of the higher values that make life worth living, when the very foundations of all real belief have been shattered or sneered out of existence, in the intellectual and spiritual collapse of western civilization?"

It is a question that goes deeper than party politics of whether someone would have made a more able secretary of state than Dean Acheson. It is a question that goes deeper than the events of yesterday or the conversations of heads of states worried about their majorities. It goes to the heart of our problem, which is that we have confused ourselves. We are paying a bitter price for permitting ourselves the luxury of the lie.

Noyes, in these same essays, says: "The chief characteristic of the intellectual world during the last 50 years is its gradual loss of the old simplicity and integrity which went so deep—went right down to the roots of life with men like Milton and Wordsworth in literature, or Abraham Lincoln in statesmanship. This deep integrity of spirit has been replaced everywhere by a shallow cynicism, a spirit of mockery, sometimes clever mockery, but none the less a shining surface with nothing behind it."

This shallow cynicism and mockery is in our daily lives. May I recall such a figure as Charles Lindbergh? Do you remember how he was driven from public life and ridiculed? Was Lindbergh mad when he feared the opening of the world to Russia?

Do you recall how when certain American newspapers dared to question the wisdom of policies that have produced our defeat, they were branded as Fascists and ready to say that their warnings did not warrant consideration?

I watch men hopping on the tailboard of anti-Communism these days. Those hoppers dare not risk the rising anger of a people betrayed. Like pickpockets, they melt into the crowd and shout, even louder than all others: "Down with Stalin!"

Their shouts are a mockery. For decades now they have devoted themselves to the destruction of their own people, and now, when the consequences of their infamy are upon us all, they move over. Nothing will cleanse them but open confession.

We shall not go under. We are still a good and a strong people. But the thousands of American bodies that lie under Korean snows must be atoned. They must never be forgotten. On the tombstones should be the words: "A victim of cynicism."

The politicians have had their day. Now the American people must speak out loud and clear. And they should take count.

Only if a joint committee of the Congress—the best men in Congress—study truthfully and non-politically the causes of our defeat, re-examine every step that led to it since 1933—only so can we prepare a voice board where he who has it in his heart to confess, can do so under oath and in public. That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

CARE OF TEETH

Some years ago a book was published showing how to make up various preparations for care of the body and the promotion of health. Among the preparations was one for cleaning the teeth in which enough tooth powder could be made up for a few cents to last the individual six months.

What some of us forget is that tooth powder or other preparations put up by our large drug manufacturers, appeal to the eye, to the sense of smell, to the taste, and so invite use whereas others, while just as effective in doing their work, do not invite use and so are not used regularly. It is regularly in brushing the teeth that is most important.

In a news release from the American Dental Association, Dr. Maynard K. Hine, Indianapolis, Dean of the Indiana University School of Dentistry, states that healthy gums (which prevent pyorrhea) can best be maintained by regular, thorough and careful brushing of teeth. In advocating three to five minutes of brushing at a time, Dr. Hine described the fine heavy gum as a fine coral pink with an orange peel surface. Further, effective dental treatment for gum disorders can only be short-lived unless the patient carries out good tooth brushing procedures at home carefully and persistently. Dr. Hine recommends a toothbrush with an inch-long head, containing medium one-half inch bristles that are bound in tufts about one-eighth of an inch apart and mounted in two rows of six tufts each.

In brushing the teeth, the ends of the bristles should not be allowed to irritate the gums; the sides of the bristles should be pressed against the gums with as much pressure as the individual can withstand. Brushing should be done in circles as wide as possible.

As to dentifrices, Dr. Hine quoted a formula, "Equal parts of water and elbow grease." Stains, green or brown, are thought by some to show that the teeth are sound, and by others that they are unsound. Dr. S. Wah Lung of Rochester, N. Y., in another article, states that as Eastman fellow in dentistry at the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry, he found that there is no difference in the amount of decay in persons who have brown stains and those without them. Similarly with green stains.

Lagging Airplane Production
Sherman's realistic report had an electrifying effect on the committee and its salty chairman, Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia. Vinson announced that he wouldn't stand for any more "business as usual" in the war production program.

The Georgian spoke his piece when William J. McNeil, assistant secretary of defense, advised the committee behind closed doors that aircraft production wasn't moving too fast because of delays in getting airplane engines.

"Plants producing engines are on an eight-hour work day and at this rate it will be 18 months before warplane production will be at a peak," McNeil reported.

"Well, those plants ought to be working on a 24-hour basis," shot back Vinson. "We've got to get the job done now—not 18 months from now. We won't get it done with men working only eight hours a day. Money is not the object now. Our liberty and the freedom of the world is at stake."

Coalition Government?
Whenever friends urge President Truman to form a coalition government, he throws up his hands and wails: "But where can I get good men to come into government?"

This column, which has urged bringing topflight Republicans into the administration, herewith presents four experienced and able Republicans:

Paul Hoffman—Ex-ECA administrator who put across the Marshall Plan in Europe. He would be a natural for a cabinet post or for a high position in the State Department. Hoffman is now touring Europe for the Ford Foundation.

Lewis Strauss—Ex-Executive to Herbert Hoover in World War I, World War II admiral, and recently retired from the Atomic Energy Commission. President Truman sided with Strauss in the debate over making the hydrogen bomb.

Charles Taft—Cincinnati lawyer and brother of Sen. Robert Taft. Charles Taft served in the Federal Security Agency and State Department during World War II.

General "Wild Bill" Donovan—War-time director of the Office of Strategic Services. He organized U. S. spying and behind-the-lines activities, and was assistant attorney general in the Coolidge administration. Some of Truman's closest advisers, including Democratic chairman Bill Boyle, tried to persuade the President to make Donovan secretary of defense instead of General Marshall, but the inside fact is that Truman doesn't like him.

All the above are Republicans; all are both able and patriotic.

Barren-Beamed Senators
Colorado's GOP Sen. Eugene Millikin, whose head is as smooth as a Colorado boulder, gave his opinion the other day of senators who try to conceal their baldness.

Millikin took the floor in self-defense at a closed-door Republican caucus, after Maine's Sen. Owen Brewster made a crack about the bald-headed old-timers. Mischievously Millikin accused Brewster of trying to cover his bald head with "slicked overs," or strands of strategically combed hair.

"But the greatest deceptician is Bob Taft," grinned Millikin with a glance at Senator Taft's thinly camouflaged head.

Headlines and Headaches
Rumors that Bill Boyle is resigning as Democratic national chairman are about as accurate as General MacArthur's bring-the-boys-home-by-Christmas promise. Boyle can only resign to the full Democratic committee at a meeting which he must call himself.

Backstage fact is that some of the Ed Pauley oil boys have been gunning for Boyle ever since he persuaded the President to veto the Kerr natural gas bill; also since he encouraged HST to be tough on Tidelands Oil.

It's now becoming clearer why Senator Downey, Democrat, ducked out of the Senate early to make room for Senator-elect Nixon, Republican, a friend of the oil lobby. Downey will not only represent the city of Long Beach, Calif., which owns a stack of Tidelands Oil leases along the edge of the Pacific, but will also represent San Diego and Oakland. Long Beach, however, will pay most of the freight—a total of $1,500 monthly expenses or $36,000 a year.

Long Beach harbor commissioners at first told the press to withhold any mention of their hiring the ex-senator. (Copyright, 1950, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Hadassah Group Slated to Feature Singer Sam Eskin

SAM ESKIN

A ballad singer, who has been traveling the length and breadth of the United States for 30 years, learning the folk lore and songs of the nation's myriad peoples, will be featured Monday evening at Hadassah's membership reception.

The ballad singer, Sam Eskin, lived out his boyhood in Baltimore not far from the railroad tracks. The fascinating sights and sounds he grew up with bred a passionate curiosity, and a desire to see all the places where the trains went. And so, when he was 17, he left home to explore the world.

Like many boys he had dreamed of working on a cattle ranch. But the dream finally turned to reality when he managed to secure a position as a cowhand in Wyoming.

There was very little about a horse Eskin knew. About the first example of his work the Wyoming foreman had, was a glimpse of a mount with his bridle on backwards. The foreman took one look at Eskin, and decided the boy would be more useful on his own two feet.

Fortunately, Sam was already singing the songs he'd learned from men at work, or sitting around the bunkhouse, and on this occasion, as was true so many times later, his songs spelled out a welcome while he learned a strange trade.

The memory of the trains in a far away Baltimore yard, and an itching heel kept him moving. Working his way across the country, the embryo ballad singer finally reached the sea.

Around the World
The sea, too, had its fascination, and Eskin worked his way around the world several times, listening to strange music and enjoying strange people in every port. Abandoning the sea for a while he worked in a cannery in Alaska. Another time he did a stint on a Louisiana bayou barge. In his lifetime he has herded sheep and cattle; worked in lumber camps and on road gangs. And wherever he traveled his invisible burden of songs continued growing. The people he met never tired of hearing them. Strangely enough, it was years before he heard his songs called folk songs. To Eskin they were merely songs it was good to hear.

Beginnings Recording
Early in the 1930's, Eskin became interested in using a recording machine to help him gather his songs for singing. His early recordings finally became the backbone of a collection which is housed today with his folkore library in an old Woodstock barn. By now, the collection's importance has far exceeded his original interest when he only recorded the songs he wanted to learn himself.

The ballad singer's mode of travel has changed too. He now travels about the country in a large trailer, savoring songs and people.

'Heart Songs' Popular
The songs Sam Eskin's audiences most often call for are the hearty songs of cowboys, and loggers, and the sea; songs that are only sung convincingly by a man who knows the life he sings about. But there are many others in his repertoire. There are the comic ballads, some tragic, some comic, some heroic. There are children's songs, game songs, and love songs. All of them have come to him from a long line of singers, a line that often reaches hundreds of years into the past.

Eskin's songs do not come from one particular region, but are drawn from the many overlapping cultures of our folk song tradition. He sings them as they come to him, accompanied by his guitar.

Rev. Daniel Haynes Chooses 'Christmas' For D.A.R. Lecture

The Rev. Dr. Daniel L. Haynes was guest speaker Thursday afternoon before members of Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R. Choosing "Christmas" for his topic, Dr. Haynes explained that if every day were Christmas, coupled with the seasonal singing of sacred songs, constant worship in the churches, and the recognition of God seven days a week, then a truly Christian spirit would prevail. He also pointed out that the spirit of Christmas is missed in so many ways, that it has lost its significance through excess celebration.

Christmas means today, he continued, men and women tired from long hours of overwork, with many a financial strain that is too great. Christmas, he explained, the anniversary of Christ's birth, should be a time of prophetic idealism; a time when men are moved to think of others, and when it is more blessed to give, than to receive. Christmas should bring lessened troubles, and should weld humanity into one family stripped of all artificial barriers. It is the time when Christ should be considered in the light of his teachings. When He is taken at His word, Dr. Haynes continued, men and women give, sacrifice, and open their hearts to humanity, particularly to children. Only then is there peace on earth, and good will toward men.

Exalts the Home
Christmas, Dr. Haynes explained, exalts the home, and glorifies family life. The home and the family are the essence of Christmas.

Dr. Haynes then posed two questions, "Have we confined the practice of Christianity to special days only?" and "Should Christ be remembered, and all acknowledged as brother only once a year?"

The answer, he said is "no," for Jesus' prayer was for the unity of his followers, and with unity, war and brutality would become impossible.

Dr. Haynes concluded his address with these words: "Let us give to the needy, those who have not, and let us share our gifts with our hungry neighbors."

Dr. and Mrs. Haynes were introduced by Mrs. Claire Sheaffer. The program was closed with the group singing Christmas carols.

Dietz Honored
Mrs. Adam H. Porter, presiding officer, then announced that the name of Robert Dietz, the only soldier from Ulster county to win the Congressional Medal of Honor, would be placed on the honor roll at Valley Forge by Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R. Mrs. Porter also read the financial report of the Hudson Valley Council, and gave a resume of the Chamber of Commerce business meeting which she attended concerning the 300th anniversary celebration of the setting of Kingston.

The group also voted to contribute to three charitable organizations: The Children's Home, the Salvation Army, and tuberculosis seals.

Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger read the new resolutions of New York State D.A.R. as formulated at the state conference in October, and Mrs. Ella R. Ochs read a letter of protest written Mrs. James B. Patton, president general of the National Society, D.A.R. against flying the United Nations flag above, or in equal prominence to the Stars and Stripes.

Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. William T. Hooker, Jr., Mrs. Harold Keator, and Mrs. Claude Palen. The table was decorated with red candles and Christmas greens, and Mrs. Frederick Snyder poured.

County Farm, Home Bureau and 4-H Have 1950 Annual Meeting

The annual meeting and banquet of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Association was held Wednesday evening, Dec. 6, at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation to Mrs. William Warren, retiring president, of congratulatory messages from her friends and associates in the association. Gathered together in book form and engraved "For Distinguished Service in the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureaus and 4-H Club," the booklet contained over a hundred tributes to her varied abilities and their use in the development of all three departments.

Mrs. Eliza Keates Young of Milton was chosen to make the presentation in behalf of the association as an acknowledgment of the leading role she has played in the extension service since its beginning in Ulster county and in the Associated County Women of the World.

Fred DuBois of New Paltz was elected to succeed Mrs. Warren. William Coy of Clintondale was named vice president, and Mrs. William Douglas of Ellenville, secretary.

Members elected to the executive committee were: Farm Bureau, Townsend Velie of Marlborough, Francis Davenport of Kripplush, Frank Aldrich of Lake Katrine; Home Bureau—Mrs. Paul Burton of Sawkill, Mrs. William Russell of Highland, Mrs. Robert Compitello of Centerville; 4-H Club—Pratt Boice of Lake Katrine, Miss Eleanor Morehouse of Lake Katrine, and R. V. O. DuBois of Gardiner.

William Coy reported 1,194 Farm Bureau memberships for 1950; 978 now in the office for 1951. Mrs. William Powers reported 1,740 Home Bureau memberships for 1950; 1,462 in the office now for 1951. Pratt Boice reported the growth in 4-H: 23 agricultural, 22 homemaking and four mixed agriculture and homemaking clubs.

Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, presented the plaque for membership excellence to Peron Gates, chairman of the drive in the Flatbush-Lake Katrine area.

Pratt Boice, toastmaster, presented Dr. E. V. Moore, assistant commissioner of agriculture for the State of New York, whose topic was "The Interdependence of Business and Agriculture." Dr. Moore said farmers in this county doubled production per man in the last 10 years. More than two-thirds of the farms here are owner operated, a fact that cannot be duplicated in any other county. Agricultural research expenditures, tremendously high, were more than exceeded by the step up in corn production alone last year. "Business and agriculture have everything in common," he said. "The need lies in making this evident to both groups," he added.

Dr. Moore said, "if the days ahead bring difficulties which we hope they do not, let's remember the boys in Korea and their sacrifices and lack of comforts."

Mayor Oscar Newkirk brought greetings from the city of Kingston.

Harry Beatty, chairman of the annual meeting and banquet committee presented Mrs. Warren with a bouquet of flowers arranged by Miss Freda Walker.

The Rev. William R. Peckham gave the invocation. Music was contributed by Ernest Canine, Miss Shirley Thacker, assistant 4-H Club agent, led the singing accompanied by Mrs. Robert Huder.

Entertainment at the annual meeting was furnished by the New York Central Railroad Company through the medium of two safety films, shown by William Reardon.

Other officers chosen with Safford, a member of the local club for many years and a cable splicer for the New York Telephone Company, were Kenneth E. Martin, vice-president; Henry P. Elmhurst, re-elected to his 14th term as secretary-treasurer; and H. Hudson Cramer and Walter H. Phillips, directors.

Recognition of the efforts of past presidents in behalf of the 14-year-old local railroad club was voiced by H. Hudson Cramer, retiring president, who presided at the annual meeting. President Cramer spoke of the pleasures and difficulties encountered through the years of existence, and introduced John J. Schwenk, first president of the club, (in 1937) and Henry C. Page fifth president of the club. Other past presidents who were unable to attend the special recognition night, were Addison A. Schultz, Burton C. Spray and the Rev. W. K. Haysom.

Annual reports from the secretary revealed increased activity during the year of 1950, including the induction of two new members, Charles E. Killmer and James Swartzmiller, and the staging of the most successful model railroad show in the club's history.

Entertainment at the annual meeting was furnished by the New York Central Railroad Company through the medium of two safety films, shown by William Reardon.

Notes on Music

(These columns are prepared by Phillip J. Odell, of Woodstock, concert pianist and teacher. The views expressed are his own.)

A PROPER APPROACH

Statistics show that of all the people who enter upon the study of music for the piano, 40 per cent give up their studies during the first three months. These first few lessons represent the most awkward stage of piano studies; more so than any other that are to come in the years ahead.

The beginner is taught the lines and spaces of the staff and memorizes the names and location of the notes on the keyboard. He then is taught the time values of the notes and "fingering," which means the playing of the note with the finger that is indicated in the music.

After the student has mastered the basic fundamentals he is ready for more substantial progress. He now more readily recognizes the relationship between the printed note and the corresponding key, and he understands the time value and the correct fingering of the note.

During the elementary student's study of his first few musical pieces he is seldom able to keep up with reading, fingering and fingering simultaneously. His knowledge of the various phases of reading and execution is insecure and he will be confused usually either with fingering or timing or merely where to find the note on the piano.

Some of the piano teachers of old would avoid many of these "confusions" by teaching the first few lessons away from the piano. A pupil was taught the lines and spaces separately from counting, and then given time drills of counting the rhythm and values of the notes away from the piano. He also learned many various musical terms which were memorized away from the instrument and by the time the student received his first few simple pieces he thoroughly knew the rudiments of reading.

These days, pupils are so anxious to play from the very first few lessons, that they hurriedly study the rudiments in a slipshod manner, and then wonder why they can't seem to learn to read correctly. This old method of study before actual playing more thoroughly assured a good foundation; and pupils were found to learn reading more quickly in that manner of instruction than any other. Adult beginners seem to realize this faster than children; and take the time at the beginning, which insures faster progress a little later on. The next few columns will be devoted to beginners and how they may study in this method.

Esopus Post to Hold Yule Party for Kiddies

Santa Claus will make a personal visit during the annual Christmas party sponsored by the American Legion, Town of Esopus Post, 1298, next Wednesday night, Dec. 20, at the Town of Esopus Auditorium in Port Ewen.

According to Bill Maurer, chairman of arrangements, an enjoyable program has been planned in addition to the appearance of Santa Claus.

Movies will be shown for the youngsters including a film on the popular Hopalong Cassidy.

Jeffersonville Five Next for Rec Cagers

Third O-S Contest Scheduled Monday

There's a heap of good basketball being played at the municipal auditorium every Monday night these days—in almost complete privacy.

The Kingston Recreations, who make their third Orange-Sullivan League start Monday against the Jeffersonville cagers. And they'd like to see a few cash customers around, just for a change.

In two outings to date—against the defending champion Middletown Royals and Monticello—the Recs have averaged 80 points, a tribute to the sharpshooting qualities of Manager Andy Murphy's 13-man roster.

The Recs dropped a sensational opener to the Royals, 29-51, and came back to beat Monticello, 71 to 67, with a spurge in the last two minutes of play.

Operating under NBA rules, the Recreations have shown a flair for sharpshooting that will have to be maintained if they expect to stay on even terms with powerhouses like Woodridge, Middletown and others, especially on foreign plans. Both of the Recs games have been played in the friendly confines of the municipal auditorium, which is probably the best court in the circuit.

L. Holstein Top Scorer

Lafayette "Champ" Holstein leads the club in scoring after two games with 25 points on nine fields and seven conversions. Doug Mathers has most baskets, 11, and trails Holstein by two in total. Red Sagendorf, ex-K.H.S., and Hartwick College star, has accounted for 20 markers; George Holstein, 19; Red Murray and Andy Juhl have 14 apiece; Big Bill Kleine 13 and Frank Sass, 11, for those in double figures.

Commenting on the foldup of Stewart Field franchise, Manager Andy Murphy said it was not unexpected by league officials.

"We knew at the start of the season that Stewart Field due might fold at any time because of the war situation," Murphy said. "The rest of the league is in good shape and all teams are likely to operate for the whole schedule."

Rutgers Swimmer Sets National Mark

New Brunswick, N. J., Dec. 9 (AP)—Bob Nugent of Brooklyn, Rutgers junior swimming star, bettered the National AAU 50-meter free-style record last night at a university aquadecade.

His time of 24.8 seconds was 4 seconds under the 25.2 mark set in 1948 by Keith Carter of Purdue.

Nugent is national AAU 100-yard outdoor freestyle champ and won the 50-yard indoor freestyle Eastern College Swimming Association title in 1949.

Playoffs Loom In Pro Football

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—The string runs out on the National Football League's regular schedule tomorrow, but three key games must determine whether some playoff-for-payoff competition will be necessary.

Could be that the Cleveland Browns and New York Giants will remain tied for the American Conference lead after their respective games tomorrow, and that the Chicago Bears will draw even with the Los Angeles Rams in the National Conference.

That is anticipated, in fact. The Browns visit the Washington Redskins, whose veteran of 14 years in pro football—Sammy Baugh—still is playing hard with his passes. The Giants meet the Eagles at Philadelphia.

The Bears, who blew a chance to assure a first-place tie last Sunday by bowing to their neighborhood rivals, the Cardinals, play host to the Detroit Lions. Cleveland and the Giants, both boasting five straight triumphs, have identical 9 won and 2 lost records going into their finales. The Bears must win to match the Rams' 9-3 mark. Los Angeles, having completed its schedule, is the only one of the 13 teams not seeing action.

Never in the 31-year history of the NFL has it been necessary to have playoffs in both divisions to decide titles.

Rickey Signs Meyer Takes on Reiser

St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 9 (AP)—Branch Rickey, his managerial problems settled by the retention of Bill Meyer at Pittsburgh, predicted today that baseball would continue in the event of total mobilization.

The astute general manager of the Pirates, who arrived yesterday for the major league convention, scoffed at rumors of a government ban on baseball to further the war effort.

"It is my firm conviction that the government would want baseball to make every effort to continue," Rickey told a press conference. "Baseball must be kept going."

"I believe we should and would adjust ourselves rapidly to the war situation. I know of no reason why both the government and baseball should not make every effort to do the same as in the last war."

Rickey was quick to point out that baseball didn't want to do anything that would have the remotest possibility of frustrating the war effort.

"I look for greater player drafts on all clubs," Rickey said. "Because of that I have postponed the idea of trying to develop a young club. I already have in mind the '600' act with 201-224-616; Harold Brookline had 220-206-596; John Schatzel 205-212-589; and Bobby Jones 226-586."

Ruling On Overtime Play

The rule governing overtime periods in high school basketball, and which figured so prominently in Kingston's sensational victory over Poughkeepsie last night at the municipal auditorium, makes the second overtime in effect a "sudden death" playoff when either team scores two points.

The rule states that in the absence of "two points" by either side, the team that has scored ONE point by the end of this period shall be declared the winner.

If neither team has scored, or if each of the teams has scored One point, additional extra periods shall be played under the same conditions as the second extra period.

Furthermore, if a team is ahead by one point at the end of any extra period, as soon as a team accumulates two points after the first extra period, the game is over, except in the case of each team scoring a second point as the result of a double foul.

Coast Better Scores Seventh Round Kayo

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—Irish Bobby Murphy, a slugging, give-and-take fighter of the old school, today clamored for a title shot at light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim.

And if Cleveland Joey is searching for an opponent with color, and crowd appeal, he'd better grab off this 28-year-old ex-gob, in a hurry. The redhead from San Diego is red hot now and a fight with Maxim would pack Madison Square Garden.

It was red-haired Bobby's 49th knockout victory in 55 pro fights and he's not going to waste any time posting a title challenge.

Murphy and manager Travis Hatfield plan to visit Eddie Egan, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, either today or Monday, to make a formal challenge and post any necessary forfeit money for a crack at Maxim.

Al Weil, matchmaker for the International Boxing Club, said he'd try to make a Murphy-Maxim title go and if that wasn't immediately possible, Weil said he'd like to have Murphy face middleweight champion Jake La Motta in a non-title ten in the Garden.

The affable redhead said he would be delighted.

The Murphy-Beau scrap was a humdinger all the way. They tore at each other from the opening bell, standing head to head and exchanging blow for blow.

Johnston's Comeback
Athletes react strangely under pressure. Take the case of Leroy "Eggie" Johnson, the Poughkeepsie guard. During the game he missed 12 out of 13 foul attempts and had flunked nine in a row when he stepped to the foul line with only seconds remaining in the first overtime and dropped two straight to end the period 45-45.

Kingston committed 30 fouls, Poughkeepsie 22 and the Kallochmen blew 28 foul shots. The Maroons misfired 12 times themselves.

Those wild last eight minutes went something like this: With 3:55 of the regulation remaining, "Eggie" Johnson converted one of two fouls to put the Blues ahead 40-37 after he dropped a layup. Mike Provenzano converted the technical called against Goede and Pete Camp went under for a layup for a 40-40 deadlock at the three-minute mark.</

Jeffersonville Five Next for Rec Cagers

Third O-S Contest Scheduled Monday

There's a heap of good basketball being played at the municipal auditorium every Monday night these days—in almost complete privacy.

The Kingston Recreations, who make their third Orange-Sullivan League start Monday against the Jeffersonville cagers. And they'd like to see a few cash customers around, just for a change.

In two outings to date—against the defending champion Middletown Royals and Monticello—the Recs have averaged 80 points, a tribute to the sharpshooting qualities of Manager Andy Murphy's 13-man roster.

The Recs dropped a sensational opener to the Royals, 29-91, and came back to beat Monticello, 71 to 67, with a spurge in the last two minutes of play.

Operating under NBA rules, the Recreations have shown a flair for sharpshooting that will have to be maintained if they expect to stay on even terms with powerhouses like Woodridge, Middletown and others, especially on foreign planks. Both of the Rec. games have been played in the friendly confines of the municipal auditorium, which is probably the best court in the circuit.

L. Holstein Top Scorer

Lafayette "Champ" Holstein leads the club in scoring after two games with 25 points on nine fields and seven conversions. Doug Mathers has most baskets, 11, and trails Holstein by two in total.

Rod Sagendorf, ex-K.H.S. and Hartwick College star, has accounted for 20 markers; George Holstein, 19. Red Murray and Andy Juhl have 14 apiece; Big Bill Klein 13 and Frank Sass, 11, for those in double figures.

Commenting on the foldup of Stewart Field franchise, Manager Andy Murphy said it was not unexpected by league officials.

"We knew at the start of the season that Stewart Field might fold at any time because of the war situation," Murphy said. "The rest of the league is in good shape and all teams are likely to operate for the whole schedule."

The individual scorers:

Rutgers Swimmer Sets National Mark

New Brunswick, N. J., Dec. 9 (AP)—Bob Nugent of Brooklyn, Rutgers junior swimming star, bettered the National AAU 50-meter free-style record last night at a university aquacade.

His time of 24.8 seconds was 4 seconds under the 25.2 mark set in 1948 by Keith Carter of Purdue.

Nugent is national AAU 100-yard outdoor freestyle champion and won the 50-yard indoor freestyle Eastern College Swimming Association title in 1949.

Ruling On Overtime Play

The rule governing overtime periods in high school basketball, and which figured so prominently in Kingston's sensational victory over Poughkeepsie last night at the municipal auditorium, makes the second overtime in effect a "sudden death" playoff when either team scores two points.

The rule states that in the absence of "two points" by either side, the team that has scored ONE point by the end of this period shall be declared the winner.

If neither team has scored, or if each of the teams has scored One point, additional extra periods shall be played under the same conditions as the second extra period.

Furthermore, if a team is ahead by one point at the end of an extra period, as soon as a team accumulates two points after the first extra period, the game is over, except in the case of each team scoring a second point as the result of a double foul.

Coast Belter Scores Seventh Round Kayo
New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—Irish Bobby Murphy, a slugging, give-and-take fighter of the old school, today clamored for a title shot at light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim.

And if Cleveland Joey is searching for an opponent with color, and crowd appeal, he'd better grab off this 28-year-old ex-gob, in a hurry. The redhead from San Diego is red hot now and a fight with Maxim would pack Madison Square Garden.

For Murphy, who ran his latest knockout string to 11 in a row, wowed the 6,667 fans ($20,743 gross) in the Garden and millions of radio listeners and television viewers with a smash performance, in stopping rugged Jimmy Beau in 1:56 of the seventh round last night.

Hot After Maxim
It was red-haired Bobby's 49th knockout victory in 55 pro fights and he's not going to waste any time posting a title challenge.

Murphy and manager Travis Hatfield plan to visit Eddie Egan, chairman of the State Referee Commission, either today or Monday to make a formal challenge and post any necessary forfeit money for a crack at Maxim.

"That's what I always wanted—a title shot—and I sure would be pleased if Maxim would oblige," said the pleasant, polite Californian.

Al Weill, matchmaker for the International Boxing Club, said he'd try to make a Murphy-Maxim title go and if that wasn't immediately possible, Weill said he'd like to have Murphy face middleweight champion Jake La Motta in a non-title ten in the Garden.

The affable redhead said he would be delighted. The Murphy-Beau scrap was a humdinger all the way. They tore at each other from the opening bell, standing head to head and exchanging blow for blow.

Murphy Switches
Beau, who was outweighted 163½ to 170, won two of the first three round rounds but Murphy switched to a body attack in the fourth and wore down the rugged 20-year-old New Canaan, Conn., gamewaster with his withering left hooks and uppercuts.

Jimmy didn't go down until the sixth when he was caught by a terrific left to the jaw. He leaned forward and then slowly fell to his knees. He took a nine-count and then came roaring back. Beau was handicapped, however, by an almost closed right eye, and in the seventh Referee Mark Conn halted the scrap as Jimmy tottered exhausted in mid-ring.

The kid, in losing his fifth bout in 31 starts, had nothing to be ashamed of. He gave Murphy a terrific fight and showed he could handle any middleweight if given the chance.

Both teams missed shots at the basket and Jim Lewis fouled Mike Provenzano, who could have ended the game with two conversions. Little Mike made one and it eventually proved to be the winning point at 46-45.

Rubin charged Dick Schultz, who missed both shots.

Tiano went out fouling Sitka, was replaced by Murphy, and Sitka blew both his chances.

Provenzano fouled Sitka and the players and officials made like they were going to line up for the foul attempts.

But, wait, isn't that a pistol the folks heard? The timer—Jim Tobin—says the ball game was ended and the clock had run over. The officials grabbed the ball and said that's all folks.

Meanwhile the fans are going nuts. Sam Kalloch is blowing his stack and a Poughkeepsie player threatens to take on the whole house. A Poughkeepsie assistant collars an enthusiastic Blues man rooster and leads him away to safety. All hell has broken loose.

The top scorer was Gloede with 19 points and he did most of his damage under the basket. George Carpozis and Mike Provenzano led with 15 and 12 respectively for the Maroons. Charlie Tiano came up with seven points and gave the Kiamen a big lift when they were sagging. Dick Schultz made a key shot with seconds remaining in first overtime. Leonard, Camp, Caruso, they played their hearts out to score this "upset" and it was just that, too.

Poughkeepsie led 9-4 at the quarter; Kingston 23-16 at the half; 33-27 at the three-quarter mark. After that, brother, not too many more of that kind, we hope. The old ticker just won't take it.

'Clock Incident' Furnishes Wild Climax to Tumultuous Battle

Like death and taxes, "incidents" in athletic contests between Kingston High and Poughkeepsie High will always be with us. Or so it seems.

Take last night's sensational schoolboy basketball thriller between the traditional rivals before a jam-packed house at municipal auditorium.

This was an important milestone in DUSO basketball history. Truculent Sam Kalloch and the Poughkeepsie Blues were returning to the DUSO family fold after many years absence.

And what do the basketball gods conjure but a slashing 46-45 Kingston victory that was conceived under slightly bewildering circumstances.

Here is the situation in a nutshell, after one of the wildest high school basketball games ever seen on the municipal auditorium court:

The Errant Clock

Kingston is leading 46-45 with only seconds remaining in the second overtime period as the result of a foul conversion by Mike Provenzano.

Provenzano fouls Sitka, substitute Blue center, and the officials duly call the play. Before Sitka gets a chance to try his free throws, however, Timer James Tobin of the K.H.S. faculty staff, notifies the officials that the contest had terminated several seconds before Provenzano committed the foul. The best guess was about eight seconds as the electric clock plainly showed.

It just didn't go off at the precise moment the hands of the clock swept past the fatal three minute mark, but the ball game was over and the officials accepted Mr. Tobin's verdict and halted the hostilities.

As might be expected, pandemonium broke loose. One of the Poughkeepsie youngsters turned into a raging maniac and had to be hauled away from the officials' table. Coach Sam Kalloch breathed fire and brimstone, storming, raging and ranting like only Sam Kalloch can do. Fans flocked around the officials table seeking an explanation for the sudden ending of the contest and the whole auditorium was plunged into unbelievable confusion.

But the electric scoreboard was cold and adamant: Kingston 46, Visitors 45.

This was a heart breaking, suspenseful brawl that embraced 51 personal fouls and one technical foul against Bob Gloede, the Blues big ace and saw several youngsters in agonizing moments of despair as they blew foul shot after foul shot that would have won for their two teams in the two desperate overtime periods.

Gloede, who broke Kingston's back with his under-the-basket technique, had knotted the count 42-42 with 30 seconds remaining in regulation to send the teams into overtime.

Tight tense, almost awkward in the stuffy first few minutes, Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroons had rallied valiantly from a 9-4 first quarter deficit to move ahead 23-16 at the half after George Carpozis had thrilled the crowd with our dazzling hook shot. They were in front 33-27 at the three-quarter mark only to see Roger Lewis hit quickly with a layup and jump shot and Gloede connect with a jump shot to tie the score at 33-33. After that it was give-and-take down to the wire and the tumultuous overtimes.

Johnson's Comeback
Athletes react strangely under pressure. Take the case of Leroy "Eggie" Johnson, the Poughkeepsie guard. During the game he missed 12 out of 13 foul attempts and had flunked nine in a row when he stepped to the foul line with only seconds remaining in the first overtime and dropped two straight to end the period 45-45.

Kingston committed 30 fouls, Poughkeepsie 22 and the Kalloch men blew 28 foul shots. The Maroons misfired 12 times themselves.

Those wild last eight minutes went something like this:

With 3:55 of the regulation remaining, "Eggie" Johnson converted one of two fouls to put the Blues ahead 40-37 after he dropped a layup. Mike Provenzano converted the technical called against Gloede and Pete Camp went under for a layup for a 40-40 deadlock at the three-minute mark.

Johnson fouled Provenzano, who missed both attempts.

Mol Leonard fouled out. (Kingston lost four of its starters—Leonard, Carpozis, Camp and Caruso, and substitute Charlie Tiano on five-personals.)

Johnson missed two fouls as George Carpozis bowed out.

Johnson missed two more fouls. Dick Schultz took a lead pass from Moll Leonard and soled under to put Kingston ahead 42-40 with less than a minute remaining.

Gloede, the chief tormentor with 19 points, hit with a pop shot from the right corner and it was 42-42 at the final whistle.

First Overtime
Pete Camp fouled out on the first play, Rubin making one of the two for 43-42 Poughkeepsie.

Kowalski fouled Charlie Tiano, who made one of two fouls, and it was 43-43.

Charlie Tiano scored a deuce from a wild scramble under the Kingston basket and the Maroon led 45-43.

"Eggie" Johnson, was fouled by Dick Schultz, and he dropped both for a 45-45 deadlock. (This is the same guy who flunked 9 in a row, 12 out of 13 up to that moment.)

Second Overtime
(Officials huddled with coaches to get straightened out on rules governing second overtime. Explanation of rule appears on the page.)

Both teams missed shots at the basket and Jim Lewis fouled Mike Provenzano, who could have ended the game with two conversions. Little Mike made one and it eventually proved to be the winning point at 46-45.

Rubin charged Dick Schultz, who missed both shots.

Kiwanis Club Has Program Honoring Its Past Presidents

A program honoring past presidents of the Kingston Kiwanis Club was presented at the club's regular meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel by Harry Rigby, Jr., immediate past president.

Rigby gave a year-by-year commentary on the history of the local club. As each year was called the person who served as president during that year was called upon to speak briefly, if he was present.

The Kingston Kiwanis Club was founded 29 years ago by a group of men who formed under the temporary chairmanship of the late Judge Joseph M. Fowle. First president elected was Arthur J. Burns, who was present Thursday noon and recalled that the club first met at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday noontimes. From a nucleus of 20 men, the club had grown to 63 members by the end of the year.

Among the events recalled by Rigby and by the past presidents was the luncheon in 1924 at which a group of Civil War veterans were entertained by the club.

Gave Camp to Scouts
In 1925, the Kiwanis Club purchased a 15-acre campsite which they contributed to the Boy Scouts.

Chester A. Baltz recalled that it was when he was president in 1926 that the club moved its headquarters from the Y.M.C.A. to the Advance Restaurant, and then to the newly completed Governor Clinton Hotel. In that year, $350 was contributed to provide free milk for school children, and the club cooperated to provide free milk for school children, and the club cooperated with Boy Scouts in reforesting two acres of land near Stone Ridge.

Dr. Julius I. Gifford was president in 1927 when the first edition of Kiwanis Kapers was presented at the new Broadway Theatre building. The Kapers was presented each year until 1932, when a welfare play was presented. Then the show was dropped in favor of an annual ball and fashion show, which was held several years. The Kapers show was revived in 1946 under the presidency of Clarence Dumm.

Best Dental Clinic
Under President Clarence Rowland in 1928, the second show in the first series of Kapers netted $1,300, which was used toward providing free milk for children and sponsoring 10 days at the Y.M.C.A. camp. The following year, under Lucius Doty, the Kapers realized $2,000 which was used to establish a dental clinic recognized at the time as one of the best in the state. Under Doty's administration, the first Kiwanis scholarship was set up. The dental clinic actually went into operation in 1930 under C. Fred Chidsey.

G. Wallace Codwise was president in 1931, when the scholarships were increased to two. Several hundred youngsters were given refreshments at a 4-H Club ball that year and in several succeeding years. In 1932, under the leadership of the late Rev. Oscar Brandoff, the club's minutes began reflecting the national depression. Discussions centered about unemployment relief, and a welfare play was presented.

During the term of Howard R. St. John in 1933, the first annual Kiwanis Ball and Fashion Show was presented and netted $1,000. The ball was repeated at the new state armory in 1934 under Harry Halverson, and became a yearly event for several years.

Recall Zucca's Efforts
With Morris Samter as president in 1935, the club operated the Y.M.C.A. camp for one week, sponsoring 50 boys. Roger Loughran, 1936 president, told the group present Thursday that much of the success of the Kiwanis ball and fashion shows held in this period was due to the interest and efforts of the late Paul Zucca.

William B. Byrne was president of the club in 1937, when the civic achievement award was sponsored for city employees. The following year, under Paul Zucca the club held weekly youth forums at the hobby house and began sponsoring a Sea Scout ship.

More recent presidents of the club were Edward Huben, 1939; Pratt Boice, 1940; Joseph Deegan, 1941; the late Henry Darrow, 1942; George Matthews, 1943; Harry Ensign, 1944; Joseph Stoddy, 1945; Clarence Dumm, 1946; G. Herbert DeKay, 1947; William Leach, 1948; Harry Rigby, Jr., 1949; Maynard Miel, 1950. Charles Snyder will take over as club president on January 1, 1951.

Offices of more than 1,100 companies and their subsidiaries are located in Rockefeller Center in New York City.

Middlecoff-Oliver Lead in Four-Ball

Miami, Fla., Dec. 9 (AP)—Defending champion Cary Middlecoff and his partner, Ed (Porky) Oliver, emerged the favorites today as the $10,000 Miami International Four-Ball golf tournament went into the grueling 36-hole semi-final round.

They were matched with Dave Douglas, Newark, Del., and Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., who staked a remarkable comeback yesterday in the quarterfinals to win a 2 and 1 victory over Bill Nary, Chino, Calif., and Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Daytona Beach, Fla.

Toney Penna of Cincinnati, Ohio and Bob Toski, Northampton, Mass.—met veterans Pete Cooper, Ponte Vedra, Fla., and Claude Harmon, Palm Beach, Fla.

The Toski-Penna duo overcame a two-hole deficit to upset highly favored Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich. and Marty Furgol, North Hollywood, Calif., 2 and 1.

Cooper and Harmon, who equalled the course best ball record for the front nine with a seven under par 29 on Thursday, breezed to a lopsided 6 and 5 win over Gene Kunes, Hollywood, Fla., and Steve Wargo, Miami, in the quarter-finals.

Middlecoff, playing out of Ormond Beach, Fla., teamed with Jim Ferrier to win the four ball in 1948—the last time it was played. Yesterday he and Oliver shook off a one hole deficit to eliminate Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., and Skeel Reigel, Tulsa, Okla., 2 and 1.

12 Cities in Favor Of Appointing Own Education Boards

Albany, Dec. 9—Out of the 17 city school districts that might have voted on the question of whether they would retain an appointive board of education or have their board become elective under the new city school law, 16 voted.

Twelve voted for the retention of the appointive system. These 12 cities are: Binghamton, Cohoes, Fulton, Glen Cove, Hudson, Kingston, New Rochelle, Oswego, Plattsburg, Rensselaer, Schenectady and Watervliet.

Four cities, Beacon, Little Falls, Oneonta and Poughkeepsie, voted to have elective boards, and a fifth, Tonawanda, did not hold a vote and therefore, under the law became elective.

The new city school law gives financial independence and taxing power to the 56 smaller cities of the state and provides they shall have elective boards directly responsible to the people, except that in city school districts whose boundaries are coterminous with the city boundaries and all of whose board members have heretofore been appointive, the people were given a choice between an elective and an appointive board.

The theory of this was that some leading citizens who might be willing to accept an appointive post might not consent to run for election.

C. of C. Mails Ballots To Name New Directors

Ballots for the nomination of directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce were mailed today to all members eligible to vote. In addition to the ballot, on which each member is asked to name seven persons of his choice, the letter contains a list of the present directors and a complete list of all eligible voting members. The election committee, of which Bert Bishop is chairman, will meet Wednesday, Dec. 20, to count the ballots.

As provided in the by-laws, each voting member is asked to nominate seven persons of his choice for the office of director for a term of three years. The 14 receiving the highest number of nominating ballots will be placed on an election ballot to be mailed Jan. 2. On the election ballot each member will be asked to vote for seven persons. This ballot will be counted Jan. 10 and new officers will be elected by the board of directors on Jan. 16.

This year the terms of Frederick J. K. Eitel, Adrian Kaplan, Clifford C. Rose, Elmer Rylance, George W. Schneider, Henry Singer and Edwin T. Strong expire. The by-laws provide that a director, after serving a full term, cannot be re-elected until at least one year has elapsed. Of the above, Elmer Rylance and Henry Singer may be re-nominated because they are filling unexpired terms.

Chairman Bishop suggests that all members eligible to vote should fill out the nominating ballot promptly upon receipt Monday and exercise the privilege of helping name the persons to represent them on the board of directors. If by error, any voting member fails to receive a ballot, Bishop asks that the mistake be called to the attention of the Chamber office by calling 5100.

Accuses Mrs. Rosenberg

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—There will be more testimony next week in a Senate investigation of charges that Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, once attended Communist meetings. The hearings reached a dramatic peak late yesterday when the woman President Truman appointed assistant secretary of defense met one of her accusers—a former Communist—in a face-to-face dispute. For hours, Ralph De Sola, who said he was a Communist Party member in 1944-45, contended that he knew Mrs. Rosenberg and had seen her at Communist meetings in New York city. Mrs. Rosenberg jumped to her feet and heatedly disputed this contention.

Would Arm Chinese

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Three Republican senators proposed today that the United States go beyond the Truman-Acheson agreement on Formosa and arm Chinese Nationalist forces to fight Chinese Reds. Senator John H. Alexander of South Carolina and Howard W. Callahan of North Carolina introduced legislation to that effect.

Recruiters Plan Extensive Drive In County Areas

The U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting offices in Kingston have announced several changes in policy effective Monday, Dec. 11. These new policies will be in effect until further notice.

Through the cooperation of Burton S. Tandy, general secretary of the Kingston Y.M.C.A., an army and air force recruiting sergeant will be at the Y every Saturday from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. for the convenience of those unable to visit the regular recruiting office during the normal hours on weekdays.

Local recruiters also plan an extensive coverage of the smaller communities of Ulster county with the announcement of the following schedule:

Monday—Rosendale, Tillson, New Paltz, Gardiner, Modena, Clintondale, Highland, Ulster Park and Port Ewen.

Tuesday—Hurley, Stone Ridge, Kerhonkson and Ellenville.

Wednesday—Lake Katrine, Ruby, Mt. Marion, Saugerties, West Camp, Woodstock, Bearsville and Wittenberg.

Thursday—West Hurley, Ashokan, Mt. Tremper, Phoenicia, Big Indian and Pine Hill.

Hours for the recruiters at the post offices will be posted in every office.

The U.S.A. and U.S.A.F. recruiting station is located in the Central Post Office Building with office hours between 8:30 a. m. and 6 p. m. Monday through Friday.

had pushed three miles south of Koto along the winding river gorge road leading to Hamhung. The marines seized commanding hills, setting up vital flank positions to protect the retreating troops.

Allied artillery pounded Chinese troops in the hills throughout the night. The Americans fought off a Friday night attack on the northeast edge of Koto. For the time the Koto airstrip, still needed for evacuation of wounded, was closed by fire. But it was reopened later.

At daylight Saturday, C-47s began landing and taking off from the field.

Chances Good
Waves of allied warplanes—grounded by weather Friday—pounded the Chinese positions along the escape route. From the south could be heard the booming of U. S. artillery blasting approaches to the breakout road.

McBeth said the chances were good for smashing through the Chinese wall. But at isolated Koto he presumably was unaware of the new threat mounted by the four or more flanking Red Chinese divisions.

"The roads leading out of here (Koto) are narrow and slippery," MacBeth reported. "They wind down off the plateau into the valley but we will make it all right. The losses will be very costly but we will make it."

Third Division staff officers withheld the location of the Chinese Red divisions sweeping behind the allied retreat column. But one said:

"It looks like they are trying a double envelopment movement aimed at blocking the road in force well south of the breakdown column."

Wore Tennis Sneakers
A Chinese prisoner from the 89th Division said U. S. Artillery fire killed or wounded 40 men of his company Friday night. He said 30 men of his unit had been evacuated with frozen feet. The prisoner was wearing rubber-soled tennis sneakers.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Soule, Third Division commander, visited forward areas up the road from Hamhung Saturday afternoon. Puerto Rican troops were aiding in the fight to keep the road open.

Almond said concentrations of 10th Corps troops in the Hamhung-Hungnam sector would put U.N. forces "in a much better position to fill off these birds."

Marbletown Auto Accident Suit

New York, Dec. 9 (Special to the Freeman)—An automobile accident August 19, east on the Marbletown-Krumville road was the basis for a $25,000 damage suit filed Friday in New York County Supreme Court.

The suit was filed by Walter E. Godfrey, a New York attorney, on behalf of Mrs. Gertrude Herzog of the Hamilton Hotel here, one of three persons injured in the crash. Named as defendant is John Bekas, also of New York, identified as the driver of a car which is alleged to have sideswiped the vehicle driven by Mrs. Herzog on a hill near Marbletown.

According to Godfrey, Bekas lost control of his car coming down the long, winding slope. His automobile was on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred, Godfrey stated.

Mrs. Herzog suffered a hip injury which has left her partly lame, it was learned. She and two injured passengers in her car were stopping at the Beaver Lake Hotel at the time of the accident. All three were treated after the crash by Dr. Irving H. Rosenbaum of Stone Ridge.

Will Ask . . .

on their best judgment, I have no quarrel with their decision. But if they didn't know, there is a dreadful responsibility on somebody's shoulders and Congress ought to find out the facts."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) another member of the appropriations group, said he is interested in pursuing the same matter.

Knew About 30 Divisions
MacArthur's intelligence has been carried out under Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby. Willoughby told a Dec. 1 news conference in Tokyo that intelligence knew before the United Nations offensive started that there were 30 Chinese Red divisions in Korea or at the Yalu river Manchurian border.

An offensive was the only way to determine whether the Chinese Communists intended to fight or were just making a gesture, Willoughby said.

Marshall was called to testify primarily on the $18,000,000,000 military appropriations bill which may be ready for House action next week. Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) of the Senate committee said he hoped also to have it ready for Senate action during the week.

Education Group Will Meet Monday Night

Arthur B. Ewig, chairman of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce education committee, has called another meeting of that committee for Monday, Dec. 11, at 8 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel. This committee was established to consider ways and means of promoting the advantages of our free private enterprise and profit systems to offset some of the vicious propaganda being spread by those who would like to see the system changed to conform with socialistic or communist ideologies.

Another small committee appointed at the recent industrial and community leaders conference will meet with the education committee to develop a unified program of some kind, to help protect and improve the system which made this country great and gave us a much higher standard of living than any nation in the world. Chairman Ewig would like to have as many members of the Education Committee attend as possible.

Two possible programs are already being considered, both recommended by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. One is a business-education day in cooperation with the schools and the various industries and businesses of the city. The other is known as the American Opportunity program carried out by industries to acquaint their employees with the operation of the plant which provides work for them. The basic theory being that a better mutual understanding will help develop better employee-employer relations.

Tappan Zee Area

Rockland counties protested last spring when news that the authority planned to bridge the Tappan Zee leaked out.

They argued that the bridge would destroy a world-famous scenic spot in addition to costing more than a bridge over a narrower point of the river.

Disseminators insisted that a bridge over the Tappan Zee would cost at least $200,000,000.

Calls Estimates 'Ridiculous'
At his news conference, Madison said such estimates were "ridiculous." He added that other locations did not offer the possibility of maintaining highway grades to three per cent and curves to a minimum.

A statement from Authority Chairman Bertram D. Tallamy, who did not attend the conference, said the Tappan Zee was selected because it would benefit the most people in the state, assure the success of the thruway, and help relieve traffic in New York city.

Madigan described the bridge as the "tied arch type, with deck truss approaches." One mile of the crossing will be on a "mole," or earth-filled causeway, jutting out from the Rockland shore.

Next there will be a series of short steel spans leading to the 1,100-foot main arch over the main navigation channel. Short steel spans will continue on to the Westchester shore.

Supports for the various spans will consist of buoyant hollow concrete boxes through which steel cylinders will extend 200 feet down to stable soil.

Developed by Army

These concrete supports were first developed by army engineers building a breakwater for the landing of troops during the battle of Normandy.

The bridge, at its Westchester side, will have its first intersection at Route 9, which links with Route 119. The second tie will be at Elmsford, where it will meet the Sawmill River Parkway.

Madigan said the authority also was studying a link with Major Deegan Highway, 13 miles south on the edge of New York city.

In Rockland county, the Thruway will have traffic interchange with Route 9W. There will be five viaducts over the Thruway between Route 59 and the Rockland terminus of the bridge. The Thruway also will connect with the New Jersey Turnpike and the Palisades Parkway.

Fire, Civil Defense

effects of bombings, fire problems in bombed out areas, fire department radiological safety measures, personal safety measures for firemen and a summary and discussion.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of Kingston has been in charge of arranging the local meeting and permission to use the M.J.M. School was granted by the Board of Education this week.

The local meeting is part of the statewide preparedness program. During the month of December, similar courses will be given in various key centers designed to reach all top level fire and civil defense officials. Instruction in the lower echelons will be given in early spring next year, and the final phase will include instructions for civilian volunteers and auxiliary firemen to be given in late spring.

Truman Berates

New York, Pegler, a news columnist often critical of Mr. Truman's administration said:

"It is a great tragedy that in this awful hour the people of the United States must accept in lieu of leadership the nasty malice of a President whom Bernard Baruch in a similar incident called a rude, uncouth, ignorant man. Let us pray."

Some who said they had seen the letter described the President's language as even more earthy than the publicized version. Hume said the letter, written in longhand on White House stationery and signed "H.S.T." was similar to the published version "but not quite identical."

While Hume was inclined to excuse what he called "an outburst of temper," at least one Republican senator wasn't quite so charitable. Senator Watkins (R-Utah) told a reporter:

"That is what you have to expect. This is in line with some of the comments the President has made before when his guardians were not there to take care of him."

Each member is eligible to cast one vote for each membership carried, but is limited to not over four votes. This by-law provision was included to spread the voting power among all members.

Waves of allied warplanes—grounded by weather Friday—pounded the Chinese positions along the escape route. From the south could be heard the booming of U. S. artillery blasting approaches to the breakout road.

McBeth said the chances were good for smashing through the Chinese wall. But at isolated Koto he presumably was unaware of the new threat mounted by the four or more flanking Red Chinese divisions.

"The roads leading out of here (Koto) are narrow and slippery," MacBeth reported. "They wind down off the plateau into the valley but we will make it all right. The losses will be very costly but we will make it."

Third Division staff officers withheld the location of the Chinese Red divisions sweeping behind the allied retreat column. But one said:

"It looks like they are trying a double envelopment movement aimed at blocking the road in force well south of the breakdown column."

Wore Tennis Sneakers
A Chinese prisoner from the 89th Division said U. S. Artillery fire killed or wounded 40 men of his company Friday night. He said 30 men of his unit had been evacuated with frozen feet. The prisoner was wearing rubber-soled tennis sneakers.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Soule, Third Division commander, visited forward areas up the road from Hamhung Saturday afternoon. Puerto Rican troops were aiding in the fight to keep the road open.

Almond said concentrations of 10th Corps troops in the Hamhung-Hungnam sector would put U.N. forces in a much better position to kill off these birds.

Marbletown Auto Accident Suit

New York, Dec. 9 (Special to the Freeman)—An automobile accident August 19, east on the Marbletown-Krumville road was the basis for a $25,000 damage suit filed Friday in New York County Supreme Court.

The suit was filed by Walter E. Godfrey, a New York attorney, on behalf of Mrs. Gertrude Herzog of the Hamilton Hotel here, one of three persons injured in the crash. Named as defendant is John Bekas, also of New York, identified as the driver of a car which is alleged to have sideswiped the vehicle driven by Mrs. Herzog on a hill near Marbletown.

According to Godfrey, Bekas lost control of his car coming down the long, winding slope. His automobile was on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred, Godfrey stated.

Mrs. Herzog suffered a hip injury which has left her partly lame, it was learned. She and two injured passengers in her car were stopping at the Beaver Lake Hotel at the time of the accident. All three were treated after the crash by Dr. Irving H. Rosenbaum of Stone Ridge.

Will Ask . . .

on their best judgment, I have no quarrel with their decision. But if they do not know, they are a dreadful responsibility on some body's shoulders and Congress ought to find out the facts."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) another member of the appropriations group, said he is interested in pursuing the same matter.

Knew About 30 Divisions
MacArthur's intelligence has been carried out under Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby. Willoughby told a Dec. 1 news conference in Tokyo that intelligence knew before the United Nations offensive started that there were 30 Chinese Red divisions in Korea or at the Yalu river Manchurian border.

An offensive was the only way to determine whether the Chinese Communists intended to fight or to make a gesture, Willoughby said.

Marshall was called to testify primarily on the $18,000,000,000 military appropriations bill which may be ready for House action next week. Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) of the Senate committee said he hoped also to have it ready for Senate action during the week.

Education Group Will Meet Monday Night

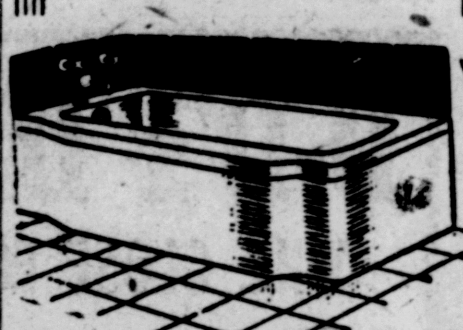

Arthur B. Ewig, chairman of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce education committee, has called another meeting of that committee for Monday, Dec. 11, at 8 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel. This committee was established to consider ways and means of promoting the advantages of our free private enterprise and profit systems to offset some of the vicious propaganda being spread by those who would like to see the system changed to conform with socialistic or communist ideologies.

Another small committee appointed at the recent industrial and community leaders conference will meet with the education committee to develop a unified program of some kind, to help protect and improve the system which made this country great and gave us a much higher standard of living than any nation in the world. Chairman Ewig would like to have as many members of the Education Committee attend as possible.

Two possible programs are already being considered, both recommended by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. One is a business-education day in cooperation with the schools and the various industries and businesses of the city. The other is known as the American Opportunity program carried out by industries to acquaint their employees with the operation of the plant which provides work for them. The basic theory being that a better mutual understanding will help develop better employee-employer relations.

Tappan Zee Area

Rockland counties protested last spring when news that the authority planned to bridge the Tappan Zee leaked out.

They argued that the bridge would destroy a world-famous scenic spot in addition to costing more than a bridge over a narrower point of the river.

Dissenters insisted that a bridge over the Tappan Zee would cost at least $200,000,000.

Calls Estimates 'Ridiculous'
At his news conference, Madison said such estimates were "ridiculous." He added that other locations did not offer the possibility of maintaining highway grades to three per cent and curves to a minimum.

A statement from Authority Chairman Bertram D. Tallamy, who did not attend the conference, said the Tappan Zee was selected because it would benefit the most people in the state, assure the success of the thruway, and help relieve traffic in New York city.

Madigan described the bridge as the "tied arch type, with deck truss approaches." One mile of the crossing will be on a "mole," or earth-filled causeway, jutting out from the Rockland shore.

Next there will be a series of short steel spans leading to the 1,100-foot main arch over the main navigation channel. Short steel spans will continue on to the Westchester shore.

Supports for the various spans will consist of buoyant hollow concrete boxes through which steel cylinders will extend 200 feet down to stable soil.

Developed by Army
These concrete supports were first developed by army engineers building a breakwater for the landing of troops during the battle of Normandy.

The bridge, at its Westchester side, will have its first intersection at Route 9, which links with Route 119. The second tie will be at Elmsford, where it will meet the Sawmill River Parkway.

Madigan said the authority also was studying a link with Major Deegan Highway, 13 miles south on the edge of New York city.

In Rockland county, the Thruway will have traffic interchange with Route 9W. There will be five viaducts over the Thruway between Route 9 and the Rockland terminus of the bridge. The Thruway also will connect with the New Jersey Turnpike and the Palisades Parkway.

Fire, Civil Defense

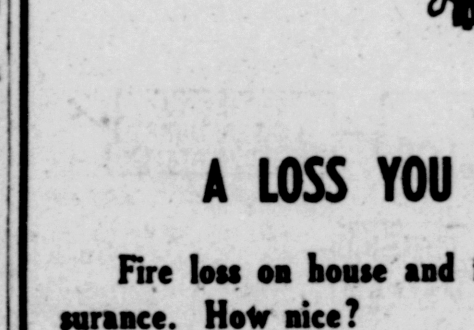

effects of bombings, fire problems in bombed out areas, fire department radiological safety measures, personal safety measures for firemen and a summary and discussion.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of Kingston is in charge of arranging the local meeting and permission to use the M.J.M. School was granted by the Board of Education this week.

The local meeting is part of the statewide preparedness program. During the month of December, similar courses will be given in various key centers designed to reach all top level fire and civil defense officials. Instruction in the lower echelons will be given in early spring next year, and the final phase will include instructions for civilian volunteers and auxiliary firemen to be given in late spring.

Truman Berates

New York, Pegler, a news columnist often critical of Mr. Truman's administration said:

"It is a great tragedy that in this awful hour the people of the United States must accept in lieu of leadership the nasty malice of a President whom Bernard Baruch in a similar incident called a rude, uncouth, ignorant man. Let us pray."

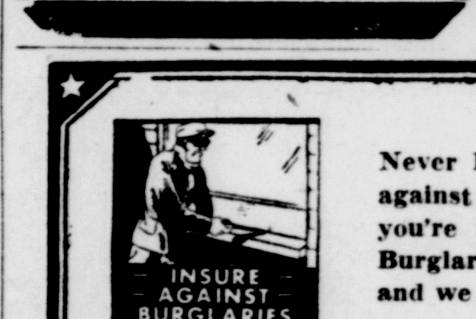

Some who said they had seen the letter described the President's language as even more earthy than the publicized version. Hume said the letter, written in longhand on White House stationery and signed "H.S.T." was similar to the published version "but not quite identical."

While Hume was inclined to excuse what he called "an outburst of temper," at least one Republican senator wasn't quite so charitable.

Senator Watkins (R-Utah) told a reporter:

"That is what you have to expect. This is in line with some of the comments the President has made before when his guardians were not there to take care of him."
